NAVAL MILITIA RECALL ASSISTANCE

Periodically the NY Naval Militia sends out requests for updates to recall information about our membership. We also ask for information on specific skills that our members hold.

The requests go out via military email or through the NY ALERT system, usually on a quarterly basis. Note that members' responses are sent to secure .mil or .gov email accounts, or to our headquarters fax. These requests are not a scam.

If we do not have accurate recall information, then when an emergency arises such as Hurricane Sandy, we cannot reach out to the people we need to recall to State Active Duty.

When these requests go out, I urge you to not only respond yourself but also tell your fellow naval militia members to make a timely response also.

Naval Militia Operation Sandy Pictures

The New York Naval Militia was once again called upon to respond in 2012. Hurricane Sandy devastated parts of New York and left civilians in need of food, water, security and clean up assistance. Bravo Zulu to our Sailors, Marines and Coasties that responded to aid the civilian sector. Its important to note that our forces experienced their own personal property damage and challenges brought by "Sandy" and still responded to the call to assist our neighbors.

The post 9-11-01 Naval Militia continues to emphasize the need for our forces to train, prepare and respond when called upon in emergency's.

In the true spirit of "State Militia" the New York Naval Militia forces generously give their time freely to train & prepare while under non-paid voluntary orders. Consider this: In addition to participating in New York State Defense Force training and response, 95% of the New York Naval Militia forces perform Federal military duty, work full time jobs and participate in personal family affairs at home.

This year (2013) may hold additional challenges for the New York Naval Militia.

Encourage your ship mates in the Federal reserves to join our team and train along side the men and women of the New York State NavalMilitia.

Message from MajGen Robert Wolf

To the men and women of the New York State Naval Militia and friends:

As we plan for the new challenges and opportunities that are before us, I would like to pass on to you my belated recognition and the "BZ" you all deserve.

The quick planning and response to Sandy was magnificent. Seeing our volunteer Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard Reservists evacuate children and the infirmed from hospitals; taking part in search and rescue missions; helping distribute logistical supplies and equipment; conducting day and night patrol boat operations and expertly performing liaison and administrative duties exemplified all that is good about your commitment as individuals and the collective value you all bring to the Department of Military and Naval Affairs and the State of New York. All this was accomplished in addition to: Sustaining and supporting the Empire Shield mission; tasking with our Joint mission partners US Coast Guard and Custom Border Protection; and our combined training with our National Guard partners.

In order to refine our mission sets, there are four points of main effort we have identified; (1) Logistics. We are currently organizing a logistical element that will be capable of supporting and running a forward deployed supply point when directed. In addition, our military and commercial drivers are to be certified, by Army and Air National Guard cadre, in order for our military drivers to take part in logistical convoy movements when directed. (2) Nuclear Liaison team. Our Nuclear Liaison team will be fleshed out and organized with appropriate tasking (3) Swift boat operations. Swift boat capable elements will be trained and supported in appropriate craft. (4) Medical Teams. Our Flight Surgeons, doctors and corpsmen/EMT's will be identified and be prepared to attach to DMNA designated units or agencies as directed.

As we look ahead there are two considerations. One, hurricane season, is around the corner, be prepared and be ready to serve. Secondly, and as important, we have a duty to remember those that gave so much in preparing the Naval Militia and putting us in a position so we may serve. Unfortunately, they are no longer with us: Rear Admiral Andrew O'Rourke, Rear Admiral Paul John Czesak and CDR Bennet Cohen. Great men all and their significant contributions will not be forgotten. We earnestly request "by your leave Gentlemen" as we prepare to move forward to the next mission.

Recruit a Member

Maj Gen Wolf, Commander, N.Y. Naval Militia has a near term goal of 3000 total militia forces by summer 2013. Our current census is 2576, so we need 424 more. This consists of Navy, Marine, Coast Guard reserves, Federal Components and State Active list (5%). The end goal is not far and very achievable.

To achieve this, we need 424 new members. If each of us encourages a friend or acquaintance in the military to hear the Naval Militia story, we can carry the ball over the goal line.

Pass this information along to your shipmates and see if there is a spark of interest. All recruitment questions will be answered and there is never any pressure to join.

Remember, three new recruits earns a Recruitment Medal.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

LN1 Michael Campanelli joined the US Naval Reserve in 1999 and affiliated with the New York Naval Militia shortly thereafter. As a legalman, his duties chiefly involved providing support to active-duty and reserve JAG officers, but he served in widely diverse commands, including Destroyer Squadron 18, Civil Law Support Activity 111 (Admiralty and Maritime Law), Iceland Defense Force Joint Reserve Unit, and Naval Justice School, where he served as an instructor. His periods of active duty brought him to Keflavik, Iceland, the Republic of Singapore, Einsiedlerhof, Germany where he participated in the Austere Challenge 2006 war game, and New Orleans in support of Task Force Navy Family post Hurricane Katrina. He was honorably discharged in 2007 after completing his eight-year enlistment.

LN1 Campanelli enjoys the training opportunities afforded by participation in the Naval Militia, and completed the Basic Crew Member course offered by the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators this August. Michael is an active member in MEBS JOA-2.

In civilian life, LN1 Campanelli is an attorney in the Office of General Counsel of the New York Department of Financial Services, where he provides legal advice to the Department's staff and the public on matters of Insurance Law. He and his wife Sandra live in Greenlawn, New York. Their daughter, Cara, now works and lives in Boston, Massachusetts.

NEW YORK STATE NAVAL MILITIA TAKES PART IN CONSTRUCTION CAREER DAY

It's no secret that the recent budget woes have posed a challenge for the Navy's community outreach efforts across the Fleet. With this in mind, NOSC Schenectady Commanding Officer, Cdr. Vincent Perry and his Command Chief, Christel Perry set-out to bring the community to their facility and bring them they did.

Back on April 24 and 25 Navy Operational Support Center Schenectady, hosted an event called Capital District Construction Career Days at their facility located just outside of Albany, New York. What came next were more than 950 high school juniors and seniors from 34 schools in the Upstate New York area.

No stranger to getting out in the community to share the Navy's core mission, Cdr. Perry set out to find ways to promote the Navy, its core values and its professional workforce. Cdr. Perry teamed up with New York State's largest construction industry association, the Associated General Contractors of New York State for a two-day, hands-on development workforce event that introduced high school students to the Navy Seabees and the professional careers within the construction industry.

With the recent cut-backs in funding, we looked for unique ways to bring the community to us and by holding an event that was newsworthy and timely we achieved our goal," said CDR. Vincent Perry.

Cdr. Perry is correct, especially in New York State where in recent years; New York State's infrastructure has taken a beating from superstorms, Sandy and Irene. There has been no better time to promote the jobs across the construction industry and the men and women of the Navy Seabees. With the recognized need to be repair our Country's infrastructure by government leaders, combined with an aging workforce, it made sense for us to promote the Navy Seabees by hosting the construction career day event, said Cdr. Perry.

I was amazed by the support from the community, said Cdr. Perry. Business owners, Unions, members of the New York State Naval Militia, the Chamber and State agencies all came together to make this event a huge success. We were really amazed not only by the turnout, but the success our local Navy recruiters had speaking to future Navy Seabees and Sailors was astonishing. They met young men and men who want to serve their country in the U.S Navy in the elite construction unit, the Seabees.

The construction career day's event consisted of three areas: an Equipment Section with 30 pieces of heavy construction equipment, including bulldozers, a paving machine, a milling machine, a crane and a directional boring machine. As part of the Equipment Section, students had a chance to operate the bucket on a backhoe, a small excavator or a skid steer loader. The second section was the Hands-on Section where students had an opportunity to try their hands at carpentry, bricklaying, crane simulation and a variety of other activities. The third section was an Exhibitors Section with booths set up by the U.S. Navy, labor, construction companies, associations, state agencies and colleges and universities to provide awareness.

The two-day construction career days event was an absolute success, said CDR. Perry. We are honored to not only host the event, but to be part of such an important day introducing student's to the many career options across the construction industry, including the Navy's very own professional construction unit, the Navy Seabees.

It is important for us as command leaders to come up with unique ways to promote the Navy and everything it has to offer. Our strategy was to take an important issue affecting our communities and find a way to inject the Navy and by hosting the Construction Career Day's event that helped us achieve our goal, added Cdr. Perry.

Uniform Update! Please Take Note

All Naval Militia members who are no longer in a drilling Reserve status (SELRES, or VTU) are required to modify their working uniform to comply with NYNMINST 1020.1A. The federal component name tape (U.S. NAVY, U.S. MARINES, U.S. COAST GUARD) is replaced with N.Y. NAVAL MILITIA. In addition, the embroidered federal component logo found on the blouse pocket is covered with the Naval Militia blue and gold patch. Patches are available from naval militia headquarters. Questions, please call (518) 786- 6021.

Send Us Your Story

Every New York State Militia member has a story to tell. With that, I encourage you to send in your photos, information of recent milestones and promotions, so that it can be shared with the Naval Militia family.

You can help raise awareness of what the Naval militia does simply by sending in your story. If you have a suggestion or comment, please e-mail me at: carlzeilman@gmail.com. I look forward to your submission.
